VI. Reading

Passage 1

A dictionary is a book which explains the meanings of words and expressions. You can find words easily because dictionaries put them in alphabetical order. The word 'dictionary' comes from the Latin 'dictio' ('saying').

There are several types of dictionaries. Dictionaries which explain words and how they are used; dictionaries which translate words from one language to another; dictionaries of biography which tell about famous people; and technical dictionaries which explain the meanings of technical words.

Dictionaries which explain what words mean give a clear 'definition' of them. A good dictionary also gives more information about words. For instance, it explains how they are pronounced. Usually the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) is used for this purpose.

There are also dictionaries which translate words into other languages. Very often one volume translates both ways; for example, half of the book is from English to Persian and the other half from Persian to English.

When using a dictionary to find out how to say something in another language, one has to be careful to choose the right meaning. A word like 'right' has several meanings in English, for example, 'correct' and 'the opposite of left'. A word like 'present' may be used as an adjective, meaning 'not absent', as a noun, meaning 'gift' or as a verb, meaning 'give'. Words with different meanings exist in other languages, too. A good dictionary lists all the meanings of words to help people find the meaning that they look for.

A complete dictionary also tells you about the origin of words and the story behind them. For example, the words like 'pajamas', 'bazaar' and 'paradise' entered English from Persian.

32. What is the difference between technical dictionaries and biographical ones?

Passage 2

Ask your child to get groceries for you or place them in the basket. Give your child educational instructions, such as "Get me the green can, please", or "Bring me the bag of rice, please". Don't forget to say "please" and "thank you", when appropriate.

Involve your child into a friendly chat about what you're doing. For example, you might say, "We're going to make sandwiches with this hamburger meat. You really like sandwiches, don't you?" This is also a good time to educate your kid. For example, "Bananas grow on trees. What else can you think of that grows on trees?" or "All fruits have a skin or cover on them to protect them from rain and bugs". By your frequent physical contact, praise, teaching, and pleasant conversation, your child will remain much more interested in the trip. By actually helping you, he will learn that stores are a fun place to visit.

If your child breaks one of your rules, immediately make him sit in "time-out". This can be any place that is generally out of the normal flow of foot traffic. In a grocery store, you can just point to one of the tile floor squares and firmly tell your child to sit on that square because he walked away from you. In a restaurant, you can simply turn your child's chair around. If the restaurant is not very crowded, you can place your child on another chair about 3 to 4 feet away from you. As soon as your child is quiet for about half a minute, tell him that it is okay to get up or to turn his chair back to the table.

Choose the best answer.

34. What does the passage mainly discuss?

- 1) Going to public places with your kid can give a chance to make him/her learn new things.
- 2) A good education of kids by parents is not an easy thing to do and takes a lot of time and patience.
- 3) Children learn new things more by doing than listening to someone talking about good behavior.
- 4) Quick punishment is necessary if you see your child breaks rules of behavior in public places.
